

Ferret's page is a beacon of sanity amidst the darkening clouds gathering above the modern world. It seeks, in its humble and gracious way, to provide opinions not always portrayed as main-stream by the media. Many will disagree with Ferret's views on censorship; religion; patriotism; private schools and politicians. Good! You can all get fucked!

Oh, look, sorry about that. Ignore that last sentence. I got a bit carried away what I meant to say was . . . YOUS ARE A BUCH A CUNTS!

Oh, shit. I did it again. My apologies. It's just that so many things give me the shits. For example I believe in capital punishment for anyone who scrapes your car in a parking area and doesn't leave a note. I believe that everything should be legalised and we'll work from there – except for religious observation which should be banned completely and then allowed by degrees, depending upon the plausibility of the central belief, which rules out most of the Western ones. There should be passing lanes for pedestrians in the city for normal people to pass fat cunts. You shouldn't be able to get a transplant unless you are a donor. You should get a percentage of the tax you've paid during your working life as a pension and lazy cunts should be given food stamps. CEOs of big companies shouldn't be able to earn more than ten times the lowest paid worker in the firm (see Finland). Any fucker randomly hitting people or causing violence to others (particularly to women) should be immediately drafted into the army for a minimum period of two years or until his commanding officer is certain that he won't reoffend. People who rape and murder and it can be proved unequivocally that they did so should be given lengthy sentences, followed by the death penalty (I was only jokin' about the parking metres –sorta.) And the Teachers' Federation in N.S.W. should have a fucken' apostrophe.

These, among other things, form the main thrust of this page.
